MAY 2009 EVENTS CALENDAR

Art and Ecology - The Built Environment

In addition to some excellent local and neighborhood opportunities, join us for a series of films, excursions, and educational opportunities that look through the lens of the artist to explore the relationship between the natural environment and the built environment. We will use the diverse architecture of our region as an excellent context and starting point.

Norwood City Schools Fine Arts Festival

May 3, 1-4pm
2020 Sherman Ave, 45212

Visual Arts, Music, and Dance converge during the Norwood Fine Arts Festival, NCS's annual celebration of the creative accomplishments of Norwood youth. Peruse the hallways and view hundreds of work from local elementary, middle school, and high school students. Catch a performance from the Silhouettes or the Jazz Band in the front lobby. Be sure to stop by the STUDIO E table for an art-making activity or demonstration before you leave!

Film Screening: Manufactured Landscapes

May 4th, 7:30pm
1758 Lincoln Ave, 45212
Host TBD

The film follows internationally acclaimed photographer Edward Burtynsky whose large-scale photographs of manufactured landscapes quarries, recycling yards, factories, mines and dams create stunningly beautiful art from civilization's materials and debris. The film follows him through China, as he shoots the evidence and effects of that country's massive industrial revolution.

ART TRIPPIN: Gallery Talk at the WESTON

May 6th, 6:30-9pm
limited transportation available
meet at / leave from Studio E

It's a neighborhood field trip! World renowned photographers Michael Wilson and Fredrik Marsh speak about their work currently on display at the Weston Art Gallery in downtown Cincinnati. This event is free and open to the public but seating is limited. To RSVP, please visit the Art Trippin page of our website or call 513.578.3069.

Michael Wilson: The Day of Small Things

"...A mid-career retrospective of the [artist], who creates unique and deeply honest photographs that sum up the essence of his diverse subject matter which includes landscape, urban settings, interiors, and portraits..."

Fredrik Marsh: Transitions-The Dresden Project

"...In Transitions: The Dresden Project, Marsh reveals the juxtapositions and ironies still abundant in the post-socialist world, contrasting the old and the new as well as the grandeur and the decay of once-majestic buildings and former residences of a city steeped in history."

Open Studio- Basics of Architecture

Monday, May 18, 3:30-6pm

Can buildings be works of art? What does it take to design a building? Where do architects find inspiration for their work? A guest artist and architect will be on hand to answer all of these questions and more, then he'll show us how to begin designing a building of our own using the diagram method.

Open Studio- Architectural Style

Thursday, May 21

What is it that gives buildings their individual personality? What part do the materials and decorative details play? How does a structure's function relate to its design? Join us as we go deep inside our very own building (St. Elizabeth Church) to explore how style makes architecture come to life. Sketch from real life examples and learn how to invent your own.

WORKDAY at Studio E
